Consumers Guide How Stuff Works Consumer Guide groups its ratings into four broad categories (cars, sport utility vehicles, trucks and minivans), with each category containing several different classes. For instance, in the sport utility category, you'll find different classes for standard and premium compact, mid-size and large SUVs. How Consumer Guide Automotive Ratings Work | HowStuffWorks Consumer Guide makes that comparison easy by providing the high, low and average rating for each vehicle class alongside an individual car's rating. Advertisement After you've looked at the overview page, you can find detailed explanations behind a vehicle's category scores on the road-test page. How Consumer Guide Auto Ratings Are Determined | HowStuffWorks Consumer Guide could make things easier by providing more interactive content. For instance, users can currently see how a particular car stacks up against others in the same class, but they have to go to an entirely different part of the site to find out what other cars are in that class.
