Sekercioglu recapitulates natural ecosystem functions and services.

Ecosystem services are the set of ecosystem functions that are useful to humans. These services make the planet inhabitable by supplying and purifying the air we breathe and the water we drink. Water, carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus, and sulfur are the major global biogeochemical cycles. Ecosystem functions and services - Oxford Scholarship Recognizing that in reality, ecosystems generate multiple services, this chapter examines the complications arising from „bundles“ of ecosystem services, where strategic priorities may result in trade-offs in service provision. The need for practical approaches to the recognition, quantification
